

acm International Collegiate Programming Contest

Kenyon Mathematics and Statistics

Announces the

ACM Regional Programming Contest (C++ or Java)

Fall 2016

Join or create a programming team (of three) to compete against schools across Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, and Michigan.

September 24 – ICPC North America Qualification Contest

- Saturday September 24, 11:30 – 5:30 Hayes 311.
 - Sign up to be placed on a team, or create your own team
 - Contest will be simultaneously hosted online across the country. Teams will be ranked nationally as they submit & complete problems for automatic scoring.
 - Two teams of three will be created from the contestants to represent Kenyon at the regionals in November.
-

November 4-5 - East Central NA Regional Contest

- Two teams of three coached by Professors Aydin and Skon
- Leave for Youngstown State University at 4:30 P.M Friday November 4
- Overnight in Hotel
- Mock contest and pizza party that evening
- Five-hour contest Saturday morning afternoon
- Awards banquet and dinner
- Return to Kenyon Saturday evening
- All expenses covered by Kenyon College

If interested contact Professor Skon or Professor Aydin in the Mathematics Department.